

The San Diego Union-Tribune.

January 14, 2007

Travel

adventure • escape

In Transit

GETTING YOU FROM HERE TO THERE

Live rich

Can't stretch the budget to afford a weekend at Rancho Valencia, the posh Rancho Santa Fe tennis resort where rates start at $495 per night? There's a way to savor the good life, without spending quite as big a bundle: The resort's spa is open to the public. A 60-minute massage costs $130. Couples can book an "intimate retreat" for two at the spa, for $330; the 90-minute treatment includes aromatic outdoor baths followed by massages. Spa treatments are a ticket to the fitness center, sauna or steam room — or an afternoon lounging by the pool.

If you fall in love with the lifestyle — or win the lottery — know that the 12 newly completed Villas at Rancho Valencia are for sale. Own one-eighth of a unit for $475,000. Shareholders have privileges at the resort and spa. Details: www.ranchovalencia.com; (800) 548-3664.